Hi Thomas,

Happy New Year! Hope your week is off to a good start.

As we look ahead to 2026, would it make sense for me to start sitting in on your Tuesday 9 a.m. weekly growth team meetings? I think having visibility into those conversations would help me anticipate marketing needs and opportunities that come out of your planning sessions, rather than reacting after decisions are already made.

I would also appreciate being included in any recurring meetings where project status and next steps are discussed, so I can make sure marketing assets, timelines, and budgets are aligned and ready in advance. That way, the marketing side can support growth initiatives more proactively.

If you are open to it, can you let me know whether joining those Tuesday meetings (and similar project status discussions) feels helpful from your perspective, and if so, when you'd like me to start? Thanks! – Beth
